IF YOU SUFFER FROM DRY MOUTH, BIOTÈNE CAN HELP

If you find your mouth is sometimes dry or uncomfortable and if it’s difficult to swallow food, you may be suffering from a condition called xerostomia – also known as dry mouth.

Dry mouth affects up to 1 in 5 adults in America. The following factors may increase your risk of developing dry mouth:

- Taking multiple medications – the risk is increased up to 50% in patients taking 3-5 medications
- Having diabetes – due to medications or high blood sugar levels
- Sjögren’s syndrome – 97% of sufferers experience dry mouth
- Undergoing chemotherapy or radiation cancer treatment – symptoms may last 2-8 weeks after chemotherapy and 6 months after radiation. However, many people experience long-term dry mouth
The symptoms of dry mouth can include:

- Difficulty chewing and swallowing – impacting food choices
- Altered taste
- Bad breath
- A change in consistency of your saliva – more sticky
- Cracked, sore lips, tongue and cheeks
- An increase in oral infections
- Interrupted sleep – waking for a drink

Dry mouth sufferers have up to 3x greater risk of cavities
